Eric Rozenoff is a law enforcement professional with over 25 years of experience in public safety, investigations, audit and compliance issues. Eric is skillful in administrative and criminal investigations and truly enjoys the investigative process. He possesses investigative expertise in a wide variety of criminal and administrative categories.

Now affiliated with MRG, Eric conducts investigations for cities, counties and special districts as well as private sector clients. He establishes a great rapport with management and employees which enhances the investigation outcomes. He offers mentoring one-on-one for employees who require professional development or need discipline issues resolved and provides small group harassment training.

Eric served in the California Highway Patrol for 20 years before retiring as an Executive Lieutenant. At the Golden Gate Division, he was responsible for ensuring that CHP commands within the Golden Gate Division were compliant with all training, and was responsible for the review of all investigations involving CHP use of force. Additionally, he developed the CHP's Advanced Officer Safety Training Program for which he was presented the Governor's Employee Safety Award. At the CHP's Transportation Management Center in Oakland, Eric developed and maintained public/private partnerships in order to facilitate major transportation projects throughout Northern California.

Following his retirement from the CHP, Eric was hired by the California Department of Developmental Services as a sworn law enforcement investigator. He promoted to Commander/Supervising Special Investigator in 2017 and officially left service with the State of California in 2019 in order to conduct investigations privately.

Eric is a licensed California Private Investigator and Qualified Manager. He graduated with a Bachelor's Degree in History from San Francisco State University, and possesses numerous law enforcement commendations and training certificates.
